OSHA Data Information Services (ODIS) is a premier compiler of consumer and business information that specializes in sourcing public records from federal, state, county, municipal and international governments. Its experience with the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) and equivalent state and international open public records laws, along with long standing relationships with government agencies, offers efficiencies unavailable to those seeking to obtain government sourced data independently.

The Small Business Administration (SBA) offers low interest, fixed rate loans to disaster victims, enabling them to repair or replace property damaged or destroyed in declared disaster areas. They also offer such loans to affected small business to help them to recover from economic injury caused by such disasters. Disaster declarations are official notices recognizing that specific geographic areas have been damaged by flood and other acts of nature, riots, civil disorders or industrial accidents.
