National Labor Relations Board Violators Mailing List

The National Labor Relations Board is an independent federal agency created by congress to administer the National Labor Relations Act, the primary law governing relations between unions and employers in the private sector. The Statute guarantees the right of employees to organize and to bargain collectively with their employers, and to engage in other protected concerted activity with or without a union, or to refrain from all such activity.

This list from OSHA Data allows you to reach companies or unions who have committed one or more unfair labor practices. There are a number of reasons an organization can be cited: these include employer restraint, employer interference with labor organization, illegal discharge or discrimination and others.

This list is a must test for human resource conferences/seminars, newsletters and host of other B2B products and services.
